grant of subsidy previously from any other source for the purchase of house-site or for the construction or repair of a house. Where subsidy is allowed to the Scheduled Castes for colonies similar assistance under the same terms and conditions may also be allowed to cover non-scheduled castes upto the maximum of 25% provided the non-scheduled castes undertake to construct their houses in the colony of Scheduled Castes. The housing subsidy shall be granted only for the following purposes, namely:—

- (a) repair/renovation of existing houses;
 - (b) construction of new houses to those who own a house site for the construction of a new house; and
 - (c) purchase of house-sites to those to whom land is not provided on nazrana rates.
- (ii) The following priorities shall be kept in view in the matter of granting housing subsidy:—
- first priority to those whose houses have totally damaged and are liable to collapse or have collapsed and warrant immediate repairs;
 - second priority to those who do not own any house of their own to live in but have got house-site for constructing a new house; and
 - third priority to those who live in a single room and share it with their cattle.

4. General pattern.—The general pattern of housing schemes shall be as under:—

- (a) The minimum accommodation to be provided in each house shall have a floor area of at least 220 sq. ft. consisting of a living room, a multipurpose room (or a kitchen and a verandah) and a store. In addition a bathing platform and a cheap sanitary latrine may be provided wherever feasible.
- (b) While locally available building material may be utilized to the maximum possible extent, the nature of construction and the choice of specification shall be such that the roof of the house should last not less than 20 years with reasonable repairs and maintenance by the occupant. - (b) as far as possible, assistance for housing shall be given to a group of families coming together either in the form of a co-operative or otherwise, instead of individuals. This will facilitate acquiring of land and developing sites and also construction of houses on a pattern consistent with modern standards of town and country planning;
- (c) in the process of encouraging construction of housing colonies, instead of isolated houses, due precaution shall be taken to ensure that it does not lead to segregation of Scheduled Castes etc;

- (d) title to land shall be a pre-requisite for the grant of subsidy where it is granted for construction of a new house.

6. Subsidy for house-sites.—For grants for house-sites to backward classes the quantum of subsidy shall be upto Rs. 300 per family or the actual cost of the land to be purchased, whichever is less. Government may enhance or reduce this limit.

- (c) Only those beneficiaries who are prepared to purchase a house-site within six months and are in a position to construct houses thereon within three years will be considered for the grant of this subsidy.

This is, however, subject to change by the Government. The subsidy shall be restricted to 75% of the total cost of construction of house(s) or the grant sanctioned per family, whichever is less and the balance or at least 25% shall be met by the beneficiary/beneficiaries himself/themselves by way of cash, kind or labour.
